“How Important is Vision”

Greg drew the first plan for HEA’s World Missions Operations Center on a napkin in a Burger King over 20 years ago and now here he stands in the center receiving another generation of students as they say goodbye to their parents and pastors and move into their dormitories. A lot of prayer, patience, blood, sweat, and tears had been poured into the this place before the first students ever came. Some of you gave, others even came and helped us build the center and we are so thankful to you All!! One of the students own words said it all as she walked through the center for the first time ... She wept as she told us that the Lord spoke to her heart saying, “My child, all that you see I did for you!” ... Thank you Lord for all you have done!!

We have been blessed with a wonderful team of teachers and leaders that only the Lord could have put together. They are so very committed and passionate about reaching their world, one village at a time!!

The Students live in the dorms as they study with their teachers throughout the week. They leave on Fridays with their 4 Field Trainers to go deep into the remote mountains where they work with local pastors planting & growing churches!

We still need sponsors for most of the students ... $200.00 a month covers the cost of their food, books, utilities, travel etc.

Every year Noel comes for 2 weeks to teach evangelistic dramas and drama ministry to the students of HEA's school of front line missions.

Margarita (HEA's Administrative Director/right) teaches classes, as well as Mark (HEA's Technical Director/below). Jorge & Leonardo (bottom right) teach classes & are also the students field trainers who go out with the students every weekend as an extension of their classroom training.

We have also added 2 new teachers, Nelly & Analuvia, that work at the school as well as in the field.

Please be praying for the “Kingdom Kids Christmas Sponsorships!”
